Site Research Opportunities

Hertfordshire

Here at Tesco, we aim to create the best possible stores for our customers. So, to ensure we open the right stores in the right locations, we're looking for two experienced and driven individuals to join our Site Research team and help shape our development plans. Join us, and we can help shape yours too.

Senior Consultant – Competition

£Competitive and excellent benefits

In this project-based role (initially to July 2011), you'll use your experience within site research to provide insight on competition issues. As well as delivering property consultancy on competition regulation issues and associated public enquiries, you'll track and analyse competitor development activity.

Regional Manager – Site Research

£Competitive and excellent benefits

With your in-depth experience of site research, you'll provide strategic insight that influences the future growth of our business. We'll look to you to deliver accurate sales forecasts, analyse store performance and develop strategies for future growth. As you'll be leading a team of Site Researchers and a UK region, management experience in a similar environment is a beneficial attribute we're looking for.

Both roles call for the ability to present at board level, influence decisions and make strong recommendations. Whilst they are currently based in the UK, given the fast-paced growth of our business there could well be opportunity to move internationally in the future.
