

Tesco Stores Limited

Site Research Analysts – Tesco Express/ Metro (Permanent)

£27k - £35k + Benefits

Welwyn Garden City, Hertfordshire

Within the fifty strong UK + Ireland Site Research team we currently have a number of vacancies within the rapidly growing Express/ Metro area.

To join the Site Research team, you'll need at least a 2:1 degree, preferably in Geography, Geography and Economics, Town Planning, or a related subject. You are likely to be already working for a retailer or consultancy conducting similar types of work and have experience of GIS, statistical analysis or business modelling techniques. In addition you will need a clean driving licence and some international mobility.

The successful applicant will be responsible for defining Tesco future growth strategy for small stores within a defined region of the UK, as well as providing accurate sales forecasts for all new sites, analysing the performance of existing stores and looking for trends in store performance.

The candidate will have to show that they can think on their feet and have the character to present your findings up to board level, influencing decisions and making recommendations. You'll work across the business, liaising with our property, marketing and retail teams, to ensure we deliver a great shopping experience for our customers. Whilst the current vacancies are within the Express/ Metro team there will be opportunities to move into other parts of the UK Site Research team, as well as move internationally in the future.

For further information, please email Tesco Property Recruitment Team on property.recruitment@uk.tesco.com or if you would like more information please call Hayley Gurney on 01707 634344.